

JEFF COFFEY BIO

Jeff Coffey is best known as the former lead tenor vocalist of the world-renowned band Chicago and former bassist for Rock & Roll Hall of Famer Don Felder of The Eagles. His work with these iconic artists, and many others, has solidified his reputation as one of the most versatile and dynamic voices in contemporary rock and pop. Yet it is Jeff's own creative achievements as a solo artist that truly define him.

A lifelong musician, singer, and songwriter, Jeff's journey began with an unforgettable early performance: a Super Bowl halftime show during his school years. Since then, he has shared the stage with some of the most respected names in music, including Robin Zander (Cheap Trick), Alice Cooper, Tommy Thayer (KISS), Jay DeMarcus (Rascal Flatts), Earth, Wind & Fire, The Doobie Brothers, and many more. These collaborations helped shape his artistry and showcased his rare ability to elevate any live performance.

As a multi-instrumentalist and solo artist, Jeff has earned critical and commercial success. His latest album Long Way Home produced two Top 20 charting singles and earned both Song of the Year and Male Solo Act of the Year honors from the Songwriters Showcase of America. His music has been featured widely across national TV outlets, including NBC, MTV, FOX, E! Network, HGTV, Travel Channel, A&E, Bravo, and others—further expanding his reach to millions of listeners.

From solo shows to fronting one of the most celebrated bands in American music history, Jeff's career continues to evolve with passion and momentum. His most recent album, THIS TIME AROUND, has been warmly embraced by fans and industry professionals alike, and his newest single, "STARSHINE," is quickly emerging as a fan favorite.

With a signature voice that seamlessly blends power, range, and emotional clarity, Jeff Coffey stands as a true creator—an artist dedicated to great songs, unforgettable performances, and the lasting connection that only music can bring.